

What HAS Renee Zellweger done to her face? Bridget actress looks utterly unrecognizable as she steps out with her boyfriend in LA

She's well known for transforming her appearance for movie roles. But off-screen Renee Zellweger displayed an astonishingly different look at ELLE's 21st annual Women In Hollywood Awards on Monday. The 45-year-old raised eyebrows when she stepped out with a suspiciously puffy face and perfectly smooth brow when she stepped out at the event, once again reigniting surgery rumours. The Jerry Maguire actress looked almost unrecognisable with her super line-free forehead and altered brow. She wore her blonde hair in a wispy side-parting, and kept her makeup natural, opting for a light touch of mascara and a slick of pink lipgloss.

The disgraced Paralympian wiped his eyes as he was handed a five-year prison term after the judge ruled that a non-custodial sentence would send the 'wrong message to the community'. The athlete was found guilty of culpable homicide, which is comparable to manslaughter, but acquitted him of murder after shooting Miss Steenkamp four times through a toilet cubicle door in his home. There was little reaction from the Pistorius family and the athlete himself sat red-faced in the dock before the judge adjourned the proceedings and he was led down stairs to the cells. Miss Steenkamp's mother June betrayed just the hint of a smile.

First man to be diagnosed with Ebola on U.S. soil - in Dallas was sanitized in the days after he was admitted to hospital and diagnosed with the deadly virus. Many of the family's possessions were seized and incinerated to destroy all viruses and pathogens. Ms Troh, along with her children, friends and family members were taken into quarantine and were kept under armed guard at a secret location in Dallas. But the group were given the all-clear yesterday after 21 days in isolation and some of the children have already headed back to school.

Horrifying moment a LIVE inch-long moth and a tick are pulled out from a man's ear

The man, known only as 'Mikey', from the U.S., is seen shouting in agony before his friends remove a furry brown moth that had burrowed into his ear canal, batting its wings (pictured left). Fluttering and burrowing itself down further into the ear, the man's friends struggle to pinch its body with the end of the tweezers. Eventually they manage to get hold of the moth and pull it out in one swoop. The moth - more than an inch and a half in length - is still alive after being removed (pictured top and bottom right). A slimy black tick is found too and has to be pulled out bit by bit. Writhing on the floor in agony, the man says: 'I felt him go boom and I went to go smack and he went in there'. His friends filmed the event and posted the stomach-churning video online.

Moment woman used a Halloween-themed T-shirt to announce to her husband they are expecting a child after a year of trying

This woman, known only as Leslie, bought a black T-shirt picturing an image of a white human rib cage, before fixing an iron-on graphic of a smiling baby skeleton to the bottom of it (inset). Donning the item of clothing, she then waited for her unsuspecting husband to return to their home (left) in Philadelphia and filmed his incredible reaction to the news on an iPhone. Footage shows Leslie's husband pointing at the T-shirt in shock (center), before joyfully hugging his wife (right).

'Drunk' snow-plough driver blamed for crash that killed Total oil boss claims he was FRAMED and says he doesn't drink because he suffers from a heart condition

A lawyer for Vladimir Martynenkov (left) insisted his client was not guilty of causing the air crash which killed Christophe de Margerie (right with his wife) and three others and totally denied the 'groundless' accusation that Mr Martynenkov was drunk. The denials seem to imply Mr Martynenkov believes he is being framed. Mr de Margerie died instantly at Vnukovo airport along with three crew on board the Falcon 50 in a sudden crash which appears to be an appalling indictment of Russian safety standards.
